

A major scale of new heights

It's up, up, and away for London's latest skyline additions

LONDON is full of landmark buildings, including several residential icons such as Canary Wharf, Battersea Power Station and the Barbican. Now, a new group of high-profile high-rise towers under construction is set to become the capital's future landmarks.

They include Canary Wharf's One Park Drive, the first UK residential venture by Hines & de Meuron, the Swiss duo behind the Tate Modern extension and the redesign of One Nine One.

Staying in the Canary Wharf area, Landmark Place will be London's tallest residential tower by number of floors and the final addition to the Landmark trilogy, consisting of the 45-floor Landmark East and 35-floor Landmark West. Located in a prime position on South West India Dock, the striking 35-storey tower captures the Canary Wharf skyline and provides 360-degree views of London. Designed by world-renowned architectural practice Skidmore, OWINGS & MERRILL, the development consists of 752 one to three-bedroom apartments, as well as a collection of spacious penthouses. Typical apartments range in size from 60sq m to 117sq m. Prices start from £225,000. landmarkplace.com

Further west, White City Living is developer St James' 10-storey, multi-building scheme of 1,477 new apartments, including the park, a central atrium and private courtyard gardens, to three pavilions through to Westfield and Imperial College London, which is being built on the site.

One Park Drive is the tallest residential tower by number of floors and the final addition to the Landmark trilogy, consisting of the 45-floor Landmark East and 35-floor Landmark West.

Yielding north, 250 City Road is a future landmark development designed by Foster + Partners. Overlooking the City skyline, the creative inspiration draws two acres of beautifully landscaped gardens and courtyards, all of which are fully WiFi enabled. The intelligently designed studios, one, one plus one, two and three-bedroom apartments and penthouses are arranged across eight buildings, including the two towers reaching up to 42 floors. Prices start from £285,000 for a one-bedroom apartment. 250cityroad.co.uk

Staying in the Canary Wharf area, Landmark Place will be London's tallest residential tower by number of floors and the final addition to the Landmark trilogy, consisting of the 45-floor Landmark East and 35-floor Landmark West. Located in a prime position on South West India Dock, the striking 35-storey tower captures the Canary Wharf skyline and provides 360-degree views of London. Designed by world-renowned architectural practice Skidmore, OWINGS & MERRILL, the development consists of 752 one to three-bedroom apartments, as well as a collection of spacious penthouses. Typical apartments range in size from 60sq m to 117sq m. Prices start from £225,000. landmarkplace.com

PROSPECT PLACE Battersea Power Station has long been a landmark industrial building. Now, its reinvigoration for housing is in its final development phase. Prospect Place is the first phase of new homes, shops, restaurants and cafes, as well as community events spaces. Prices start at £260,000 for a one-bedroom apartment with two beds from 80sq m. The majority of the winter gardens. A two-bedroom apartment in the newly designed Prospect Place is priced at £133,000. prospectpowerstation.co.uk

SOUTHBANK PLACE Heading into town, situated between Waterloo and County Hall Behind the London Eye stands the River Thames, Southbank Place is one of central London's best located developments. Consisting of seven buildings of varying heights with three residential blocks and a central square, the riverfront setting and grand scale ensure its status as a future landmark. Now 70 per cent sold, the last few two and three-bedroom apartments for sale are priced from £2.4million. Flats come with Miele appliances and the development also features a health and fitness facility and spa. southbankplace.com

BISHOPS GATE A new focal point for Fulham High Street, with striking architecture combined with beautifully crafted interiors.

KEYBRIDGE TOWER Standing on the south side of the river, Keybridge is home to Keybridge Tower. Created by award-winning developers Mount Anvil and FABRICA by AJD Architects, the 37-storey Keybridge Tower is a landmark development, as it will be the UK's tallest brick residential edifice when completed.

The 470 new homes consisting of studios, one to three-bedroom flats and penthouses start at £175,000 - with competitors for Keybridge House at the end of this year and Keybridge Lofts in 2018. keybridge.london.com

Inspired modern interiors - an outstanding family home

Gladstone Village, Cricklewood, NW2, an exclusive development of contemporary apartments and houses forming a new community overlooking Gladstone Park comprising 2,334 4-bedroom family homes.

2-Bed apartment £615,000, 2-Bed detached house £800,000
3-Bed houses £850,000, 4-Bed houses from £910,000

www.gladstonevillage.co.uk
020 8208 8355

Now 69% sold

REACHING SATURDAY 30th SEPTEMBER

Set behind carefully restored gatehouses, Bishops Gate is a new focal point for Fulham High Street, with striking architecture combined with beautifully crafted interiors.

REGISTER FOR MORE INFORMATION AND TO VIEW THE EXCLUSIVE SHOW HOMES

020 7409 8756
BISHOPSGATESWE.COM

MI Savills

Broad horizons: Landmark Pinnacle lights up the Docklands

Staying in Docklands, Landmark Pinnacle will be London's tallest residential tower by number of floors and the final addition to the Landmark trilogy, consisting of the 45-floor Landmark East and 30-floor Landmark West. Located in a prime position on South West India Dock, the striking 75-storey tower enhances the Canary Wharf skyline and provides 360-degree views of London.

Designed by world renowned architectural practice Squire And Partners, the development consists of 752 one to three-bedroom apartments, as well as a collection of spectacular penthouses. Typical apartments range in size from 426sq ft to 1,171sq ft. Prices start from £425,000, landmarkpinnacle.co.uk

The white concrete facade of the marbled-clad pavilion from 1908 Franco-British Exhibition gave the area its name.

The first phase of student and three-bedroom apartments priced from £620,000. Completions are expected with landscaping to be

METRO Tuesday, September 26, 2017

METRO Property New-Build News

A major scale of new heights

It's up, up, and away for London's latest skyline additions

ONDON is full of landmark buildings, including several residential icons such as Centre Point, Battersea Power Station and the Barbican. Now, a new group of high-profile, high-rise towers is under construction is set to become the capital's future landmarks.

They include Canary Wharf's One Park Drive, the first UK residential venture for Herzog & de Meuron – the Swiss duo behind the Tate Modern extension and the redesign of Stamford Bridge.

Staying in Docklands, Landmark Pinnacle will be London's tallest residential tower by number of floors and the final addition to the Landmark trilogy, consisting of the 45-floor Landmark East and 30-floor Landmark West.

Located in a prime position on South West India Dock, the striking 75-storey tower enhances the Canary Wharf skyline and provides 360-degree views of London.

Designed by world renowned architectural practice Squire And Partners, the development consists of 752 one to three-bedroom apartments, as well as a collection of spectacular penthouses. Typical apartments range in size from 426sq ft to 1,171sq ft. Prices start from £425,000, landmarkpinnacle.co.uk

Further west, White City Living is developer St James' 10-acre, multi-building scheme of 1,477 new homes – private sale only in the first phase – that lies at the heart of the 60ahill, ten-year regeneration of the wider White City area.

The white concrete facades refer to the marble-clad pavilions from the 1908 Franco-British Exhibition that gave the area its name.

The first phase of studio, one, two and three-bedroom apartments are priced from £620,000. The earliest completions are expected in late 2019, with landscaping to be finished ahead of the building works. The landscape architects, Murdoch Wickham, have purposely balanced public and private spaces throughout, including the park, a central amphitheatre and private courtyard gardens, to draw pedestrians through to Westfield and Imperial College London.

whitecityliving.co.uk

Venturing north, 250 City Road is a future landmark development designed by Foster + Partners. Overlooking the City skyline, the entire incorporates almost two acres of beautifully landscaped gardens and courtyards, all of which are fully WiFi enabled. The intelligently devised studios, one, penthouse one, two and three-bedroom apartments and penthouses are arranged across eight buildings, including the two towers reaching up to 42 floors. Prices start from £885,000 for a one-bedroom apartment. 250cityroad.co.uk

Battersea Power Station has long been a landmark industrial building. Now, its reinvention for housing is into the development phase. Circus West Village is the first phase of new homes, shops, restaurants and cafes, as well as community events spaces. Prices start at £600,000 for a one-bedroom apartment, with two-bed from £800,000. The majority have winter gardens. A two-bedroom apartment in the Gehry-designed Prospect Place is priced at £1.33million, batterseepowerstation.co.uk

New Build NEWS
by Graham Butler

Inspired modern interiors
- an outstanding family home

Gladstone Village, Cricklewood, NW2, an exclusive development of contemporary apartments and houses forming a new community overlooking Gladstone Park comprising 2, 3 & 4 bedroom family homes.

2-Bed apartment £615,000, 2-Bed detached house £800,000
3-Bed houses £850,000, 4-Bed houses from £910,000

www.gladstonevillage.co.uk
020 8208 8355

CALLINGUS
www.callingus.com

NOW 50% SOLD