

Property news > Buying > New homes

Live in Europe's highest home: new Docklands skyscraper is tallest residential block on the continent, with 27th-floor urban park

At 784 foot, Landmark Pinnacle is Europe's tallest residential tower.

DAVID SPITTLES | Tuesday 12 March 2019 12:04 GMT | 0 comments

From £542,750: flats at Landmark Pinnacle in Canary Wharf, Europe's tallest residential tower at 75 storeys and 748ft

Urban explorers and YouTubers performing dangerous stunts from cranes and buildings have become a headache for developers and landowners.

Ballymore, owner of the Wardian London apartment tower in Canary Wharf, is the latest to seek a High Court injunction preventing “persons unknown” from trespassing on the site.

Nearby Landmark Pinnacle, which is Europe’s tallest residential tower, may yet prove to be an irresistible challenge to unauthorised high-rise climbers.

The 27th floor of the 75-storey, 784ft skyscraper is being turned into an urban park with 8,700sq ft of green space, including a children’s play area and picnic garden.

Hanging out: daredevil gymnast Elvis Bogdanovs marked his 20th birthday in November last year by scaling 600ft Wardian London and dangling one-handed from a crane on the roof (Kennedy News and Media)

Crowning the building are two lush landscaped roof terraces with sofas and loungers, an all-weather lawn and a residents' bar and kitchen for special events.

Also on high floors of the tower are a business club, a 24-seat cinema, a gym, a golf simulator and putting green, while at ground level, a 4,500sq ft tilting plaza slopes above a café, creating another recreational space.

The 752 apartments are priced from £542,750. Call 020 3905 6826. ■

Landmark Pinnacle offers exceptional views across London